PR No. 4/2005

Editorial Paintings announces two new paintings on view in Gallery 1 at www.editorialpaintings.com:

What Was Their Role?

Blowback

War continues to rage. Death has become a daily statistic. Empire is accepted. The “world is flat,” we’re told by the cocktail party journalist who believes global corporate exploitation is good for all – everyone benefits, raise a toast to that. How could it not possibly be good for us? Blah, blah, blah – which camera will I be on?

The American corporate news media continues its downward spiral of junk news about mentally unstable brides, freak entertainers, celebrity murderers, cross-selling of corporate products and personalities, and a daily dose of local death and destruction as popular culture, to keep the sensational advertising dollars flowing. Old anchors have taken their fist-full of dollars and vanished, leaving behind a wasteland and legacy of intellectual ignorance, obsessive nationalism, trivial commentary, political pettiness, commercial whoring, corporate salesmanship as news, and of course tongue-in-cheek giddiness.
