

Editorial Paintings

Art With A New Direction

Press Release

October 25, 2004

PR No. 3/2004

Editorial Paintings announces three new paintings on view in Gallery 1 at www.editorialpaintings.com:

Bring 'em On: Dover AFB

Unsound Mind

If It's Sunday...

We are living in a time of extraordinary events coupled with incompetent and untrustworthy leadership. With a Presidential election days away, Americans need to think very seriously about where we are in this country, how we have come to this point in our history, and where we could be headed if we do not change course and elect new leadership to the office of President and Vice President of the United States.

The first editorial painting, Bush Administrations, was begun in December 2001 and completed in January 2002. At the time there was only one war - Afghanistan. Today, we are militarily occupying two countries. More than eleven hundred American military personal have been killed in Iraq. Thousands of Iraqi civilians have been killed. America has fewer allies today than it did just three years ago. George Bush and Dick Cheney have not united the American people, but have further divided them.

Week after week, the path America is on becomes more dangerous and further damages its reputation in the world. It is time for a change.

For more information, contact Martin Ostrye at artist@editorialpaintings.com.